The World Heritage Convention
is the leading international instrument for conservation that brings together natural and cultural heritage.

SHORT-TERM OBJECTIVES

- Take a local-global learning approach engaging in three different properties to ensure that lessons are credible, workable and robust.
- Explore and define practical strategies to deliver a fully connected approach to considering nature and culture in the practices and institutional cultures of IUCN and ICOMOS.

LONG-TERM OBJECTIVES

- Influence a shift in conceptual and practical arrangements for the consideration of culture and nature within the implementation of the World Heritage Convention.
- Establish new and stronger partnerships with organizations that are already engaged in World Heritage and are taking biocultural and community-based approaches to sustainable development.

Terms of Reference

- ❑ Take a holistic view of cultural and natural heritage, including the ways that natural and cultural values support the World Heritage values;
- ❑ Provide an understanding of local perspectives on the 'entangled' dimensions of the biocultural landscape and the interconnected character of the natural, cultural and social values of the property;
- ❑ Explore how traditional and conventional/legal management approaches could be reinforced if based on a multidimensional understanding of all the values of the properties and not just or mostly those values that triggered the inscription.
